Why choose Sun Life again?

► On this page, read about the advantages you get with Sun Life

You can count on our expertise and commitment to innovation. We've been providing stop-loss solutions for more than 30 years. We're here for you. Whether that's processing a claim reimbursement request, answering a question about your policy, or developing a new service that helps make it easier to self-fund. Nothing compares to the sense of confidence you'll gain when you decide to choose Sun Life again.

Take a look at the advantages you receive with Sun Life Stop-Loss:

Claims expertise

We carefully evaluate each claim, one at a time, every single day. Dedicated, experienced claims analysts personally process claims in an average of 10 business days, after receipt of a complete Specific claim.¹ In addition, our medical staff provide catastrophic claims management that produces opportunities for claim savings and better patient outcomes. Working together, over the last three years, we have processed over 68,000 claims and provided $1.3 billion in reimbursements.²

Sales and underwriting expertise

Our experienced sales and underwriting teams focus solely Sun Life Stop-Loss. They understand the intricacies of self-funding and know how to assist you when it comes to choosing the right coverage, options, and services that best fit your needs.

We are one of the largest direct writers of stop-loss in the United States. We retain 99.5% of the Specific risk and 100% of the Aggregate risk for Sun Life Stop-Loss policies. Because we don't need reinsurance approval, we can provide faster final responses to our customers' underwriting and claim reimbursement requests.

Predictable renewals

We are fair and consistent. We apply the same standards to every renewal. Our pooled approach provides rate stability and helps to minimize major cost changes at renewal. This gives you the ability to better manage your health care costs over time.

Exclusive access to Sun Life cost-containment services

Our preferred cost-containment vendor program, including our Centers of Excellence network transplant program, are among the first and most comprehensive cost-containment programs in the industry. These programs save Sun Life customers millions of dollars each year in combined claim savings. Our preferred vendors can help control first-dollar claims paid by the employer and catastrophic claims reimbursed by Sun Life Stop-Loss.

Comprehensive coverage that can help lower the overall cost of self-funding

Sun Life provides a wide range of innovative features, options, and services. The policy includes a variety of reimbursable expenses such as cost-containment fees, off-label drug use, alternative-care state assessments, and state-mandated health care surcharges. Additional policy options provide the ability to better manage the bottom line, giving you more control over your self-funded plan strategy.

Financial strength

Sun Life provides protection and wealth management to over 20 million people across six continents. We are a member of the Forbes Global 2000.³ And independent ratings place us among the top North American financial organizations.⁴ You can rely on the strength and claims-paying ability of our underwriting companies.

Stop-Loss highlights

Key features deliver greater protection

Sun Life's standard features combined with the options you choose can deliver a greater level of protection for your self-funded plan. Take a look:

- No New Lasers at Renewal option with Renewal Rate Cap

We believe in offering coverage for all your employees, not just the healthy ones. With the No New Lasers at Renewal option with Renewal Rate Cap, we will not increase your premium level beyond the rate cap, and we will not impose new or higher Specific deductibles on a covered person simply because a catastrophic claim was incurred during the year.

- Mirroring Endorsement

This eliminates many potential coverage gaps between the underlying plan document and your Stop-Loss policy. The Mirroring Endorsement replaces our Stop-Loss policy's definitions, terms, and provisions with the definitions, terms, and provisions of the underlying plan document.

Value-added cost-containment services

The following services are included with ALL Sun Life Stop-Loss policies:

- SunResources®

SunResources is our innovative safety net of cost-containment services. Customers use it on a voluntary basis to gain access to one of the most extensive networks of cost-containment vendors in the stop-loss industry. Using the network can provide opportunities for significant savings. Access to SunResources vendors is facilitated through our Sun Life medical staff at no additional cost. SunResources can help lower the costs both before a catastrophic claim occurs and on existing catastrophic claims.

- SunExcel®

The pioneering SunExcel Centers of Excellence transplant program provides patients with access to more than 100 prominent transplant facilities across the United States. Available to all covered employees and dependents, SunExcel can have a bottom-line impact for the patient and the employer.

Predictable renewals

► On this page, learn about how we approach renewals

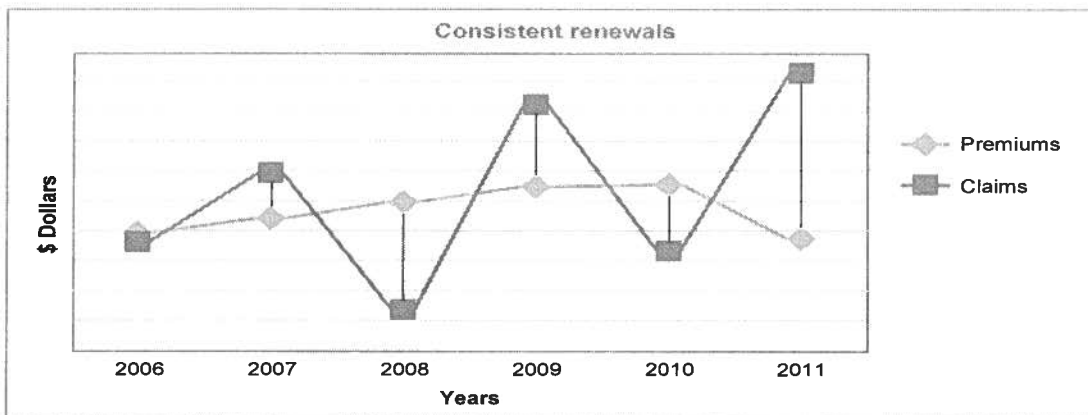

We have developed a comprehensive renewal approach to help provide customers with fair and predictable renewals. Sun Life Stop-Loss renewals include all of the following:

- An explanation about how pooling helps deliver rate stability
- A claims summary showing how your plan is performing
- Education about market factors that affect stop-loss rates
- A clear renewal illustration that outlines current and renewal options

How pooling helps deliver renewal rate stability over time

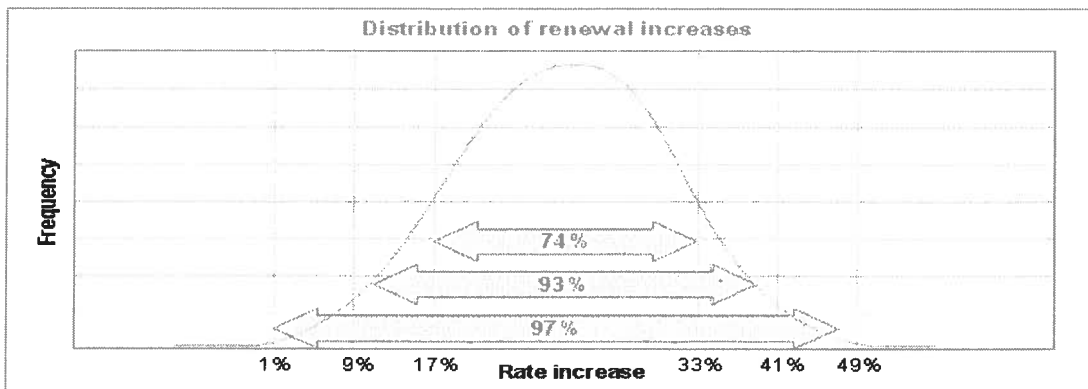

To help produce more consistent renewal costs, we combine your company's Stop-Loss experience with other customers' Stop-Loss experience. This is called "pooling." It means that the overall cost of claims is shared by your company and the others in the pool. It provides stability because Sun Life's entire book of Stop-Loss business is large enough to absorb the claim fluctuations that would be produced by any one customer.

The chart below shows how our pooled approach can provide protection against significant changes in renewal costs. Your Stop-Loss claims can rise and fall from year to year, largely due to the volatility often associated with catastrophic claims. In a non-pooled approach, your renewal premium would likely be adjusted each year to reflect your individual claims experience. The corresponding rate changes might be extreme depending on how poor or how favorable the experience was over the most recent contract periods. Pooling decreases volatility, since the cost of the catastrophic claim is spread over the entire customer pool.

This chart shows the renewal premiums and claims experience of an actual Sun Life customer with 600 lives.

The chart below shows the overall impact of our pooled approach on our customer base. In the last three years, 93% of our renewal increases fell between 9% and 40%. Only 7% of our customer base was presented with increases beyond 40%.

This chart shows the historical renewal increases for Sun Life for in force business from 2008 to 2011.

Estimated reimbursable claims

When preparing your renewal options, Sun Life assumes that a number of claims have not yet been reported in the current policy period. We use a completion factor—an estimated amount of time it might take for an incurred Stop-Loss claim to be submitted for reimbursement—to predict how many claims will be submitted for reimbursement in the remaining months of the policy period.

Pending claims

Often, at the policy renewal date, there are claim reimbursement requests that have not yet been fully processed and paid by Sun Life. Pending claims are reviewed as part of the renewal underwriting process. We understand that the actual reimbursable amounts might change after the final claim review has been completed.

Market factors that affect stop-loss rates

► On this page, learn more about medical trend and key health care costs

There are a variety of market factors that health insurance carriers and stop-loss insurance carriers take into account when setting rates. The key factors that affect stop-loss rates are medical trend, leveraged trend, the health care plan, and the group's attributes. Other factors that are taken into consideration include economic conditions, current legislation, and the stop-loss industry itself.

Here's an explanation of the key factors that affect stop-loss rates:

Medical trend

Medical trend is a prediction of how much health care costs will rise over time. When an employer chooses to self-fund its health plan, it accepts responsibility for paying the bills for health care services that its employees and their dependents use. Unlike an insured plan, the employer runs the risk that the total cost will be considerably higher than expected.

A closer look at health care costs

Health care costs are variable. One type of health care cost can rise or fall at a different rate compared to another type of health care cost. In addition, the type of health care cost can have an impact on different types of insurance. For example, a shift in cost for physician services is likely to have a greater impact on the employer's portion of claims within a self-funded medical plan. This is because a large percentage of employees use physician services without ever reaching the catastrophic claim levels that would qualify for reinsurance by a stop-loss carrier.

The four main areas of health care costs include:

1. Physician services
2. Pharmacy
3. Inpatient services
4. Outpatient services

The charts below illustrate how annual medical trend rates fluctuate based on type of service and frequency of use by the insured population.

This chart shows how annual trend rates will fluctuate based on the percentage of service used within each component by the insured population in any given year. The percentages in both graphs are based on analysis of 2012 Milliman Medical Index, May 2012, pages 2-3.

The health care plan and the group's attributes

In addition to medical trend, there are other factors that can influence how a stop-loss carrier sets its rates. Here are a few of the most significant:

- Health care plan design: which services are included; co-payments; deductibles; employee contributions
- Managed care selections: the choice of preferred provider organization (PPO) or a health maintenance organization (HMO); participation levels; incentives; health care practices (for example, higher-cost experimental procedures can become generally accepted in the medical community, and therefore become newly covered)
- The group's attributes: who's covered; the geographic location of the employer; the type of industry

Because of these factors, even if medical trend is between 7% and 13%, stop-loss premium can still increase.

Market factors that affect stop-loss rates, continued

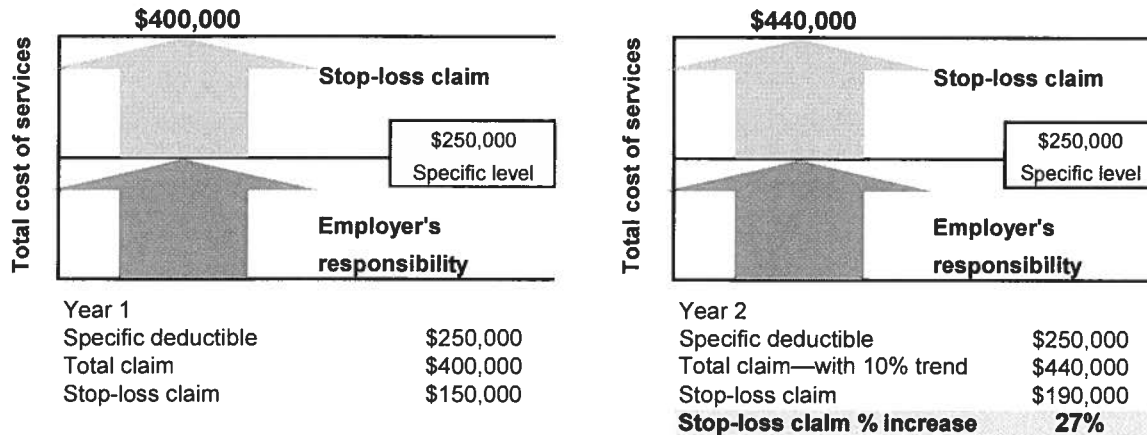

► On this page, learn more about leveraged trend

Leveraged trend

Leveraged trend is a prediction of how much the cost of catastrophic claims—the type of claims that stop-loss insurance covers—will rise or fall over time in relation to health care costs.

In the chart below, the cost of the claim increases by 10% due to medical trend, and the customer keeps the Specific deductible of $250,000 for two years. The 10% increase in medical trend has a larger impact on the catastrophic claim because the employer's risk allocation remains the same.

How leverage trend works

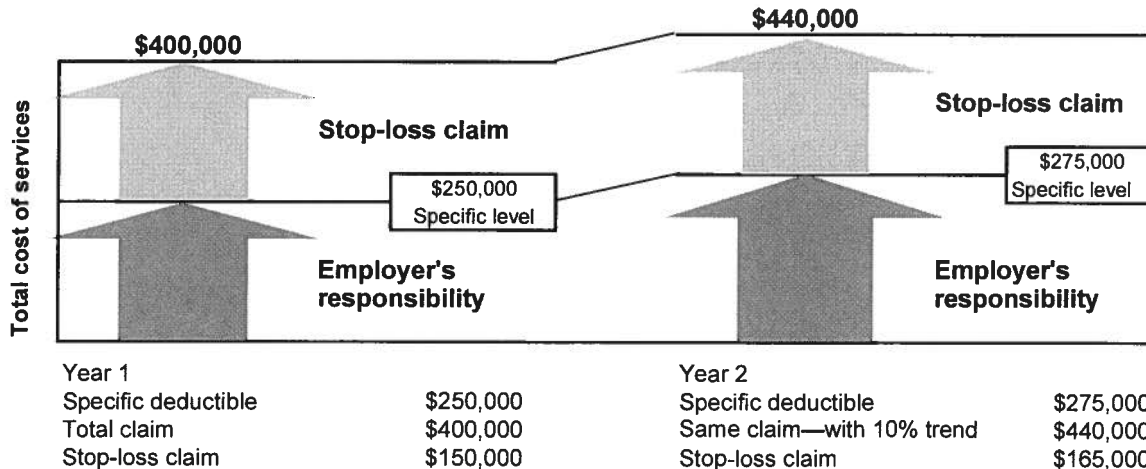

How to reduce the impact of leveraged trend

Employers can help offset the effect of leveraged trend on their Specific stop-loss premium by choosing a higher Specific deductible.

If the Specific deductible remains the same from year to year, the division of the risk between the customer and the stop-loss insurer will change. The stop-loss carrier will assume a larger portion of risk in return for higher premiums. The employer can help stabilize stop-loss rates by adjusting the Specific deductible.

In the chart below, the cost of the claim increases by 10% due to medical trend. The employer chose to increase its risk responsibility by increasing the Specific deductible amount. This changed the risk allocation, so the carrier can then reduce the stop-loss premium.

However, in that situation, the self-funded medical plan is responsible for the claim.
